COURSE OUTLINE

Every day, clinicians are faced with unexpected situations where patients suffer injuries—ranging from minor incidents to more complex and potentially serious outcomes. The way these injuries are understood and managed can make all the difference in ensuring patient safety, maintaining trust, and achieving positive results. This course takes you inside real-world scenarios, equipping you with the knowledge to recognize different types of injuries, anticipate possible outcomes, and follow clear guidelines to respond effectively. By building both confidence and competence, participants will leave prepared to handle these challenging moments with professionalism and care.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

- Understand types of injuries
- Understand the different outcomes
- Guidelines on how to effectively manage these situations

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

This course is designed for dental professionals—including dentists, hygienists, assistants, and office managers—who play a role in patient care and safety.

ABOUT THE INSTRUCTOR

With a Doctor of Dental Medicine degree from Boston University Goldman School of Dental Medicine and a specialty certificate in Endodontics from the Boston University Endodontic Residency Program, Dr. Amburle has a strong foundation in endodontic treatment. His passion for the field stems from its technical challenges, advanced technology, and the opportunity to preserve natural teeth while alleviating pain.

Dr. Amburle has taught and mentored pre-doctoral students, lectured to dental professionals, and maintained a full-time clinical practice. He has held part-time teaching positions at Boston University and Marquette School of Dentistry at both the predoctoral and postdoctoral levels. His clinical expertise has been recognized through several awards. He is certified by the Royal College of Dentists of Canada and the American Board of Endodontics, and is an active member of the Canadian Dental Association, Ontario Dental Association, American Dental Association, American Association of Endodontists, and the Hamilton Academy of Dentistry. In his free time, Dr. Amburle enjoys traveling with his wife and two children, working out on his Peloton, and cooking.
